HOPKINTON

News has been received here of the recent marriage of Rev. E. Albert Witter of Berlin, N. Y., and Miss Mary Crosby of Adams Center, N. Y. The former was for several years pastor of the Second Seventh Day Baptist church of Hopkinton and for nearly three years was town clerk of this town.

Representative Everett P. Mathewson and family and Postmaster Frank W. Mills were Thanksgiving guests of friends in Warrenville, Conn.

Daniel E. Blake and family visited at the home of Thomas A. Grieve at Thetfordville Thanksgiving day.

Mrs. William S. Mallen has closed the summer home at Hopkinton and, accompanied by Mrs. Thomas H. Green, has gone to New York for the winter.

Rev. E. P. Mathewson supplied the pulpit at the Rockville S. D. B. church Saturday morning and is to speak there again next Saturday.

Charles A. Brown and Henry Larkin went hunting Friday morning and shot a fine fox.

Miss Dorothy S. Wheeler of Connecticut college, New London, spent the Thanksgiving recess at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Wheeler.

An automobile and a team collided at the corner by the Ashway wooden mill about 7:30 o'clock last week Wednesday evening. The windshield of the car was shattered, the wagon was badly broken and the horse received slight cuts. No one was hurt in the smash.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Byrom entertained their son and his wife from Maine over Thanksgiving.

New Haven.—There is hardly an in the list of appointive jobs in this state for which New Haven will not provide one or more candidates, and it is the same with the federal places.

"I ATE PIE FOR THE FIRST TIME IN 8 YEARS," SAYS MRS. RYAN

"It seems wonderful to think that I can eat what I please and when I please," says Mrs. Fannie Ryan. "For nearly 8 years, I suffered with stomach trouble and could eat only the plainest of food and very little of that. Crackers and milk was my usual diet and often even that upset my stomach. I would go for days at a time without eating. I lost weight and looked like a skeleton. My cheeks were sunken in and my eyes seemed to be popping out of my head. Medicine didn't seem to help me at all. About a month ago I first got Goldine No. 1 and it took hold right away. I noticed that I was not distressed after eating and that I could eat more gradually at every meal. Now after taking several bottles of Goldine No. 1, I can eat everything I want to and it seems to me now as if I had never had any stomach trouble. I had pie the last three days and it was the first time in eight years. I wish that I could tell everyone personally what Goldine will do for them if they have stomach trouble. It seems a pity that so many should suffer when they can get relief with this medicine. Mrs. Thos. McCall highly endorses Goldine. Goldine is sold by G. G. ENGLER.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Tomorrow (Wednesday) brings December, the month of Christmas and Red Cross seals, which mean so much to afflicted humanity throughout the year. This year the opening of December will bring with it in Danielson the annual drive of the Civic Federation to sell 50,000 Red Cross Christmas seals.

No person who has a true conception of the Christmas spirit will overlook the opportunity to purchase as many as possible of these seals. Every penny paid in the devotion to the Red Cross is a contribution to the relief of suffering. Of all the money that may be obtained here, 85 per cent will remain in the hands of the Civic Federation, the remaining 15 per cent going to the Red Cross organization direct.

Last year the Civic Federation sold 41,000 seals in Danielson. Just what this splendid organization did with its share of the money may be advantageously told at this time. The finely fitted health station in the town hall building is a direct result of local people's generosity toward the Red Cross and Civic Federation last December, when Dr. Hugh Campbell of Norwich has been regularly coming to Danielson and conducting clinics in the interest of tubercular persons or those succumbing to the dread disease. Upwards of 80 persons have been treated here and several cases taken care of at the sanatorium in Norwich. One afflicted child was sent to a seaside resort, another child who needed building up had been supplied with milk and eggs. The beneficial results obtained in numerous cases are little short of marvellous. Those who go last year have shared in a great work for good—nothing less than the saving of invaluable human life.

At this time the Civic Federation is asking the local public again to support it in its important mission and points to its report, proudly, as an extra inducement to interest the general public in the welfare of the community.

This year the federation is asking the local public to buy at least 50,000 Red Cross seals, at one cent each. School children will have them for sale on Wednesday and thereafter. Members of the Civic Federation also will have them for disposal, and a selling station may be established in the business section.

A Red Cross seal on your letter during the pre-Christmas season will be evidence of your sympathy for unfortunate humanity, an indication that you wish the world and all of its people well, that you are kind of heart and that you are truly imbued with the spirit of peace on Earth, Good Will to Men.

The Civic Federation is justly asking Danielson to make record purchases of seals this time. The more the seal, the better the health of the community.

At the home of her daughter, Mrs. Delose C. Wood in North Sterling, Monday at 11 o'clock, a funeral service for Mrs. Mary Miller was conducted by Rev. Marvin S. Stocking of the Danielson Methodist Episcopal church. The body was taken to Providence for burial in Swan Point cemetery. Wilfred L. Reuter, P. H. Greener, Henry Anderson and Carl Anderson were in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Fifty friends of Mr. and Mrs. A. Redman, on the West side, gave them a miscellaneous shower recently. Games and games were enjoyed. Ice cream and cake were served.

Local financial institutions are planning the disbursement of the last amount of Christmas funds within the next 15 days. With the slowing up of industries in and about the town individuals for who the beginning of 1920 provided for this year, Christmas money opening a significant account, now realize that they have a very snug amount coming to them for holiday purposes. The systematic saving of a small amount each week each month is the best way for wage earners to provide for the rainy day, or as all have found it now, the dull season.

It is to be hoped that all of Killington's mills will be closed shortly after the turn of the year.

Local banking institutions are now planning their Christmas Savings Club for 1921 and it would have to do so over taken this systematic way of saving will avail themselves of the club for the coming year.

The escape of two prisoners from the Brooklyn jail has suggested the possibility of approximately the same thing happening at the police station here in Danielson. The police station in the rear of the town hall building is fitted with modern steel cells. No prisoner ever yet has managed to get out of one of the cells. The door of the cell is the simplest thing in the world for him to open.

Although precautions have been taken to heavily bar all the windows of the cell room, and all the windows of the court room, which is separated from the cell room by a solid wall, the door leading to the outside and freedom has no bars. In fact, a prisoner would not even be out to the trouble of breaking the glass of the door. All he would have to do would be to turn the spring lock and walk out, and it is possible that this will happen sooner or later, should an officer inadvertently leave a door open on a cell door or make some other slight mistake to be taken advantage of by the wily prisoner.

Mrs. Abby Hopkins and Miss Elizabeth Hastings have returned from a visit of a few days in Boston.

The Foxboro A. A. is the next team scheduled to meet Connecticut Mills at basketball.

William McDermott, who has been visiting at his home here for a few days, left Monday for Syracuse, where he is to be employed during the winter by a building company.

The Quinebaug mills, which had been closed since last Wednesday, resumed operations Monday morning.

William V. Paulhaus of New Bedford was a visitor with friends in Danielson Monday.

Up to early Monday evening no trace had been found of Alvin L. Bradley and Frank Mason, alias Abraham Burdell, who escaped from the county jail at Brooklyn during the early hours of Sunday morning.

Mrs. M. A. Shumway, who had charge of soliciting for the Day Kimball hospital offering just before Thanksgiving, reports having received $1450 and a large quantity of vegetables, preserves, etc.

Mrs. William A. Burrows, who has been seriously ill at her home here, is steadily improving.

There were no announcements Monday as to when mills that are closed may be expected to resume operations.

Schools resumed their sessions here Monday after the Thanksgiving recess.

Tracks left by the two prisoners who escaped from the county jail at Brooklyn indicate that they made off in a southerly direction at least at the outset of their get-away.

PUTNAM

Although police officers everywhere in southern New England were on the lookout Monday for Alvin L. Bradley and Frank Mason, no trace had been found of the two prisoners who escaped from Brooklyn jail during the early hours of Sunday morning.

Further than that they left the jail headed in southerly direction, as indicated by footprints they left in soft soil, not a line had been obtained on their movements after gaining their freedom. No authentic reports came in of persons having even seen anyone answering their description. The assumption seems to be that they have made their way out of the state. The Rhode Island border is only a little more than ten miles eastward from the jail and the Massachusetts line only about 15 miles away to the northward.

No keys are used by the prisoners in making the escape. It was determined on Monday. It now appears that the men got out of their cells by crawling through what are known as bucket slides—formerly used to pass through buckets of water to the prisoners a practice long since discontinued, as the arrangement was not approved by the state board of health.

Tiers of cells in the county jail at Brooklyn are built back to back with a narrow alleyway between the tiers at the rear. Each cell door has a bucket slide closed by a small metal door. These small doors covering the bucket slides have been fastened with lumps since their use was discontinued.

It is indicated that Mason somehow managed to detach the heavy closing the bucket slide to his cell and then crawled out through the small opening into the narrow alleyway. Once out he pulled the bucket on the slide, and then he put the bucket back in place, thus preventing the small slide in his door and out into the narrow alleyway.

Mason, who was very familiar with the layout of the jail, having previously served time there, is believed to have planned and directed the escape. During his present term of imprisonment he has been working in the jail kitchen. It is believed that he made the necessary preparations to let himself out of the cell block and into the main corridor some time Saturday afternoon or evening before he was locked in his cell for the night.

Mason is regarded by officials at the jail in Brooklyn as one of the shrewdest and cleverest men they have ever confined there in the past twenty years. He is exceedingly clever with keys and locks, keen and cool as a strategist and a criminal record indicates he would not stand at taking a long chance of any kind if it held out any promise of advantage to himself.

He knew the weakness of the jail structure and once he had decided to take advantage in getting away before he was caught before he had gone further than Hampton.

There seems to be a suspicion at the jail that at least one other prisoner might have contributed some aid toward the escape of Bradley and Mason, the latter rightfully known as Abraham Burdell, a man who has done time in state prison for burglary and larceny.

General Rush C. Hawkins, who died recently in New York, has through a bequest to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and to be used "to abate the wicked horror of vivisection" started a drawing their views to various New England newspapers that promise to be acrimonious and long drawn out.

General Hawkins was born in Pomfret and went west here in 1865. He was killed by being hit with an automobile while he was crossing Fifth avenue in New York, where he has lived for many years.

Discussing his gift for the purpose mentioned a Boston paper says editorially: "The general was a well meaning man, but he was not a scientist."

It would be interesting to know how many of these friends were in good health by reason of discoveries made by vivisection. The anti-vivisectionists are a well meaning people who accept the results but are blind to the fact that but for this work the welcome results would never have been possible.

This editorially brought forth a letter of protest that appeared in a Hartford paper:

May I say a few words to the smug and self-complacent person who wrote it? The speaker of the "well meaning" General Hawkins and of the "well meaning" anti-vivisectionists. By the way, he seems to have a paucity of expression.

There are scientists who believe some planets to be peopled with beings of much greater stature and more powerful intellect than we possess, and whom we would compare as does the dumb animal to us. How would our worthy friend like to be dragged into the laboratories of these giants to be used alive?

John A. Loomis of Pawtucket was a visitor with friends in Danielson Monday.

NORWICH TESTIMONY

Home Proof, Here, There and Everywhere.

When you see Doan's Kidney Pills recommended in this paper you most always find the recommender a Norwich resident. It's the same everywhere—in 3,800 towns in the U. S. Fifty thousand people publicly thank Doan's. What other kidney remedy can give this proof of merit, honesty and truth? Home testimony must be true or it could not be published here. Read this Norwich recommendation. Then insist on having Doan's. You will know what you are getting.

Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, 1-Ripley Place, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills on different occasions and I usually keep them in the house. I have always found Doan's helpful, for they relieve backache promptly. I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, because I know they can be depended upon."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Hiscox had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

In experimenting with the diseases with which they may be afflicted? Whether or not there are such beings the fact still remains that might (whether of body or intellect) does not make right.

As for life after death, or the assumption of a soul in dumb animals, who will dare say that they have not a soul in their own order? The writer might read to his profit Macmillan and others on this subject.

The matter of vivisection is a one-sided business, because practically all of the arguments come from one side, and that, the side benefited by the practice. But, in the last analysis, are "good health" and "the welcome results" to the "expression of your own sympathy" tributes, valuable enough or worth while enough to have caused the suffering and torture of any of God's creatures? To preserve our own clay a few short years longer, and to escape pain ourselves, we have caused weak and helpless creatures to suffer for us.

Very truly yours,
LUCY C. FHELPS,

As this silly and sentimental letter was evidently intended for publication, space is better devoted for its appearance. Its logic carried with it a prohibition of meat and a reasonable caution about the cruelty of depriving a mosquito of his sustenance. If it should not "cause weak and helpless creatures to suffer for us" where would we be?

There were developments unexpected except by counsel when the superior court came in here Monday. Judge Gardner Greene, of Norwich, presiding, to resume trial of the case of Miss Jennie Willis of this city vs. Newton A. Ballard and M. J. Kenney. When court adjourned last Wednesday afternoon the testimony was regarded as having all been taken and the case was ready for arguing.

When court came in Monday morning, however, counsel for Mr. Ballard filed a motion to re-open the case. It was argued by length by counsel and finally allowed by Judge Gardner Greene.

Four witnesses were introduced by counsel for Mr. Ballard to show the position of the Ballard and Kenney witnesses just prior to the crash and just after as indicated by the marks on the highway. These witnesses were Earl E. Johnson, William Richardson, Byron Howard and Albert E. Wood. In rebuttal counsel for Mr. Kenney introduced testimony by Mr. Kenney, Wilfred Bennett, Arthur Pepin and Frederick Robitaille.

Following the taking of the testimony of the witnesses on Monday morning arguments were made by Attorney Charles L. Torrey, representing Miss Willis, and by Attorney Archibald Macdonald, representing Mr. Kenney.

Court adjourned until this morning when the remaining arguments will be made and the judge's charge to the jury given and the case handed over for decision by the twelve men who have heard it.

One uncontested divorce was granted at Monday's session of the court. Mrs. Myra E. Wilson of Willimantic was granted a decree, on the ground of desertion, from J. Edward Wilson, now of Chicago. The couple were married in Willimantic December 12, 1914. Custody of a minor child, Margaret Evelyn, born in 1915, was awarded the plaintiff, who was represented by Attorney W. A. King of Willimantic.
